

Thermocline
Thermocline
Thermocline
Thermocline
Thermocline
Thermocline

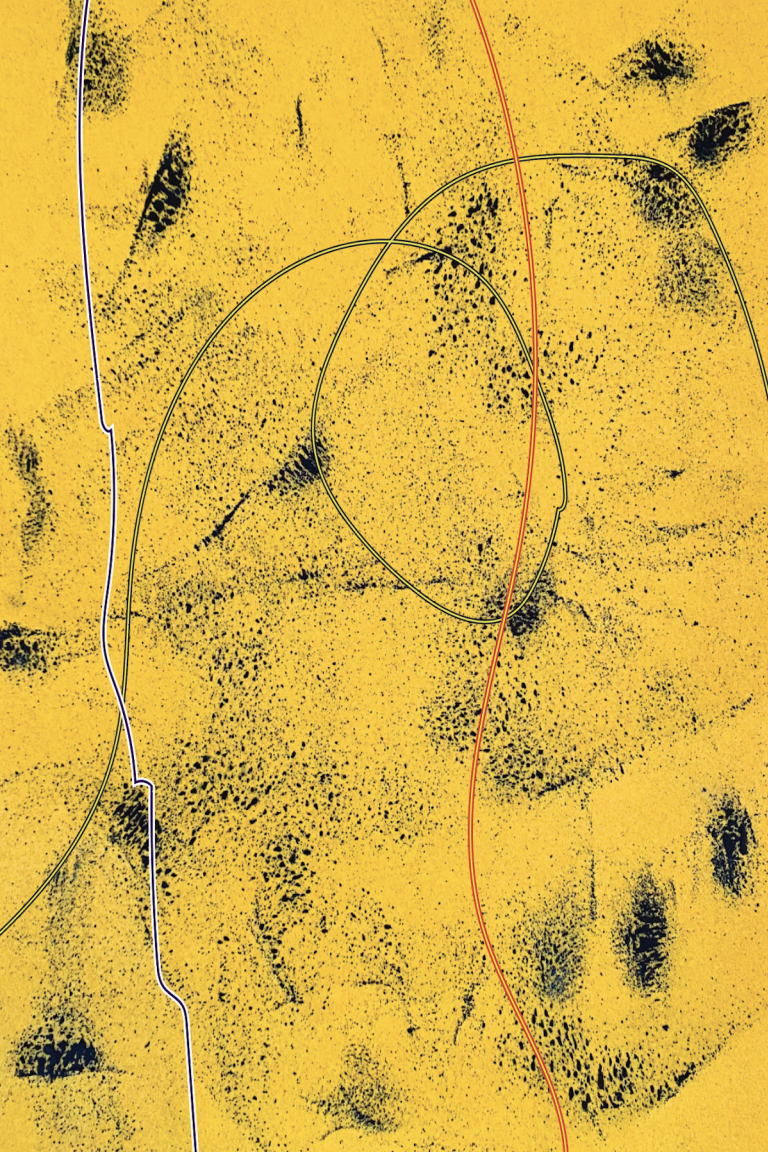

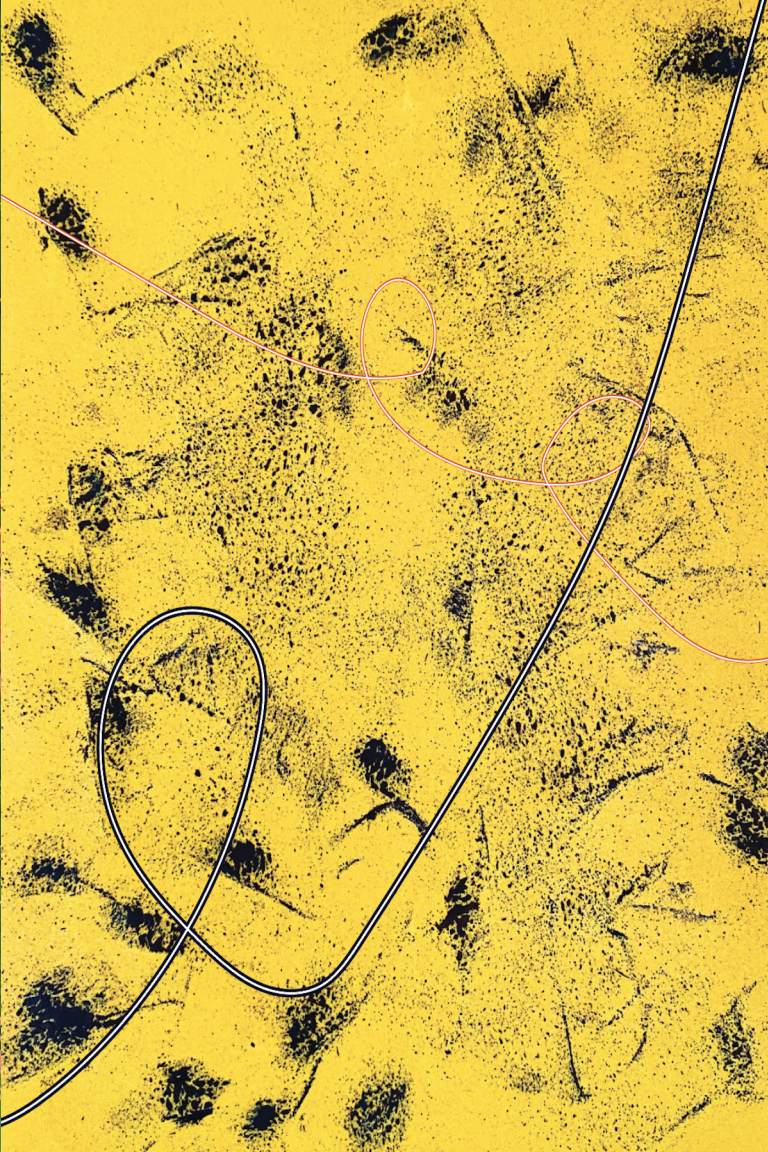

Thermocline are transitional layers between the surface and deep ocean based on temperature. They are physically distinguishable shifts of cooling the deeper you go.

Measuring the temperature, tactilely surrendering as the coldness passes over one's flesh. The layers are not consistent or predictable as you descend through a liquid bio-archaeological space impervious to history, objects and information and only decipherable by the body alone.

Thermocline

Thermocline

Thermocline

Thermocline

Thermocline

Thermocline